If I Could Have A Club House

By Mckenna Lyons

If I could have a club house, it would be a magical, secret barn in the woods. It would only appear to me and those that I have brought to it, and when you approach it, it's doors with red paint and white trim would invite you in to a then enormous indoor arena.

There would be a loft with furniture where my friends, family and I could hang out and drink hot coco or as I call it, Arabian chocolate, because its hot.

The down stairs, main part of the barn, would have a max of five stalls for my friend's horses and my precious Arabian mare Pretzel JS. The tack room would have a hanger were we could hang all of our matching saddle pads and ear bonnets. It would also have a verity of Jumping, Dressage, Saddle Seat, and Western saddles.

The indoor arena would have a jump course set up with the prettiest of jumps, Dressage letters, and trail obstacles. The horse stalls would have clean bedding, water buckets with water so clear, and the most tasty Hay and Grain.

If I could have a secret club house, I would have a big barn with a indoor arena, stalls so clean, and a cozy comfy loft in the middle of the woods.
